

ABSTRACT

In layer systems according to prior art, the adhesion between the layers or between the layers and the substrate is often poor. In the inventive layer system, the surface of the interface between the layers is enlarged such that the connection and adhesion are improved.